

NEW LIQUOR BILL BEFORE CONGRESS

PRES. HOOVER URGES THREE MAJOR MOVES

ASHVILLE WINS CUT IN POWER, LIGHT EXPENSE

Domestic Consumers of Village to Benefit by New Schedules

LASTS FIVE YEARS

First January Bills to be Effected

Beginning with their first light and power bills in January, Ashville's domestic consumers will be the recipients of a lower rate than has been paid heretofore. The council was aided in its case by Emmitt L. Crist, prosecuting attorney, who advised it through the scenic making.

The ordinance presented and passed under suspension of rules Monday evening is to cover a period of five years.

Under the new schedule Ashville will pay 8 cents for each of the first 40 kilowatt hours; five cents for each of the next 20 kilowatt hours and three cents for each kilowatt hour more than 60 kilowatts. The minimum bill will be 75 cents according to the contract.

QUITE A DROP

At present Ashville is paying 10 cents for each of the first 25 kilowatts; seven cents for each of the next 50 and three and one-half cents for each over that amount.

The contract for the street lights of the village continues for the next five years through a previous act of council.

Should there be any fluctuation in power rates during the five years, Mr. Roberts, of Marion, representing the Ashville Light & Power Co., promised that Ashville would be treated with all fairness.

ALL SATISFIED

The new rate leaves a good taste in the mouths of the villagers who will now probably bend their efforts to have Ohio Fuel Gas Co., and Citizens Telephone Co., take a slice out of their rates.

Prohibition, farm relief and the soldiers' bonus also loomed prominently.

Last Message for Sales Tax, Banking Reform, Slash in Costs

DOCUMENT IS SHORT

Executive Ignores Issues of Prohibition

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Hoover, in his last annual message to Congress, today recommended a general sales tax as necessary to balance the budget, radical reform in the nation's banking structure, and drastic reduction in all forms of governmental expenditure, federal, state and local.

Suiting the deed to the word, the President reported to Congress that the budget which he will transmit tomorrow will call for

UNDERWOOD VOTES "YES"

Mell G. Underwood, congressman from this district, voted for the Garner resolution in the House "lame duck" session Monday afternoon.

Ohioans in the House voted 12 to 9 for repeal with James G. Polk of Highland-co the only Democratic against it.

Of the eight Republicans voting against the resolution five were defeated in the last election and one did not seek reelection; that was Senator Brand of Urbana. Polk declared he did not think the resolution protected dry territory from the return of the saloon.

$580,000,000 net less expenditures than are contained in the budget for the present fiscal year.

CO-OPERATION DEMANDED

Coupled with these recommendations, Mr. Hoover further declared that if the United States is to return to the prosperity it once enjoyed there must be "vigorous and whole-souled co-operation with other governments in the economic field."

On the burning issue of prohibition, the President's last message was eloquently silent. The word did not appear throughout the nearly 4,000 words of his last report to Congress on the state of the nation.

Nor did Mr. Hoover touch extensively upon the war debts, but the reason for this is understood to be that he will shortly transmit to Congress a special supplementary message dealing with this controversial issue. Conversations with the debtor countries over the manner in which they are to meet their Dec. 15 payments are still in progress, and the President did not wish to embarrass them by specific recommendations at this time.

He referred only in passing to the recent general election, which saw the greatest defeat his party has witnessed in years.

"While we have recently engaged in the aggressive contest of a general election," he said, "its very tranquility and the acceptance of its results furnish abundant proof of the strength of our institutions."

Considering the widespread effects of the continued depression, Mr. Hoover reported that the general state of the nation is good.

But, he declared, there are three definite directions in which governmental action can strengthen further the forces of recovery and confidence:

1. "Continuing reduction of all governmental expenditures, whether national, state or local."

2. "Complete re-organization at once of our banking system."

3. "Vigorous and whole-souled co-operation with other countries in the economic field. The first need today is the strengthening of commodity prices."

On the tax situation, and the pressing need of a manufacturers' sales tax, Mr. Hoover had this to say:

"Some of the older revenues and some provided under the act passed during the last session of Congress, particularly those generally referred to as nuisance taxes, are no longer productive and on Page Two

Mrs. Lee's granddaughter, Mrs. Mary Shultz, 34, her husband, Earl Shultz, 43, and a two-year-old daughter were also fatally burned. All succumbed in the hospital.

Two other children injured are expected to recover.

VISITED IN CITY

Mrs. Lee had been a visitor at the home of her son several times and was well known to a number of persons in this city.

The blaze followed an explosion of kerosene used to kindle a fire in the Shultz home Monday morning. All were trapped before aid could reach them.

Mrs. Lee and the Shultz child died within a few hours after reaching the hospital and the man and wife later.

FIVE AUTOS IN ACCIDENT

Exactly 12 hours after the automobile driven by her husband figured in an accident at Court and Main-sts, the Hupmobile coupe driven by Mrs. Asa Elsie, this city, figured in a crash only 15 yards farther east on Main-st. No one was injured in the accident Monday at 8:30 p. m. although five automobiles were involved.

Mrs. Elsie was driving north on Court-st and started to turn onto E. Main-st when a Chevrolet driven by Jack Heeter was found parked in the center of the street with no lights, witnesses said. Heeter was apparently waiting for the light to change. Mrs. Elsie was unable to pass the Heeter car on the right side of the street so to avert a crash started around the left side.

Her Hupmobile struck the rear end of a parked Ford sedan, according to witnesses, but did not damage it. It then struck the Essex of Ed Cox damaging the rim, tire and running board and went on to hit the Chevrolet coach of Ralph Ramey damaging it. The Elsie automobile was not badly damaged and was driven away under its own power.

CHICAGO MAIL ROBBERS GET NEAR MILLION

Five Bandits Hold Up Bank Messenger With Registered Mail

LOSS IS IMMENSE

Central Post Office Scene of 'Job'

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Five bandits held up a messenger and an armed guard at the Central post-office today and escaped with a sack of registered mail, valued at thousands of dollars, which was addressed to downtown banks.

Most of the mail was for the First National bank of Chicago. An official of the institution said the usual registered mail delivery to the bank runs between $500,000 and $1,000,000 daily.

DARING ROBBERY

The holdup was one of the most daring in years. It proceeded with precision and apparently was planned by experts.

The messenger, Fred Voelach, and the guard, Frank F. Stastny, had just left the federal building and crossed the street when the bandits closed in on them.

While one remained at the wheel of the gang's automobile, two of the bandits menaced Stastny and seized him before he could draw his pistol. The other two desperadoes pressed revolvers to Voelach's side, compelling him to relinquish the mail sack.

CAR DISAPPEARS

Throwing the sack into the rear of the car, the four who performed the actual holdup jumped in and were driven away by the fifth bandit. By the time Voelach and Stastny ran into the federal building shouting for help, the bandits' car had turned the corner and disappeared.

Federal authorities and Chicago police immediately spread an alarm and started an intensive search for the gang.

The mail sack contained 123 pieces of registered mail addressed to the First National and 40 pieces addressed to the First Union Trust and Savings bank. The exact value of the loot cannot be determined until registry records are checked.

"MARCHERS" GAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Jubilant over partial victory won at the last minute in the face of apparent defeat, the "hunger army" prepared to parade the streets of the national capital and send a small delegation to Congress today with the permission of authorities.

By dint of a "compromise" the 3,000 marchers won grudging permission for their demonstration on the strength of a pledge to pack up and go home afterwards.

HIGHWAY SCANDAL ACTION IS HALTED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6.—Ohio's highway department bribery scandal, a nine-days' wonder which electrified the state in August 1931, passed into oblivion today with the withdrawal of $50,000 slander action against State Senator David P. Lorbach (D) of Cincinnati.

Attorneys for Clyde J. Kinsley, who was named by Lorbach as the man who allegedly offered him $25,000 to return from a senate investigation of the highway department, declared that a settlement was reached out of court and that Kinsley was "completely exonerated."

Mississippi Democrat Presents Startling Measure Tuesday

PROVISIONS GIVEN

Would Return 300 Millions, Asserts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Democratic bill to legalize light wines and beer was placed before the House today by Representative James W. Collier, Democrat of Mississippi, chairman of the Ways and Means committee.

The permitted alcohol percentage of beer was fixed at 2.75 per cent by weight to serve as a basis for hearing which will open tomorrow.

A similar bill which does not attempt to fix by statute the meaning of "intoxicant" was offered in the Senate by Senator Tydings, Democrat of Maryland, one of the Senate wet leaders.

This measure would amend the Volstead act by striking out the one half of one per cent definition of an intoxicant and substituting the word "intoxicating liquor."

TAX 16 CENTS

A tax of 16 cents per gallon would be imposed on all beer, ale, port, and "other similar fermented liquors" sold under the enactment.

At the end of three years this tax would be diverted to an "unemployment reserve fund."

Legalization of light wines was joined with the beer bill by Collier on the plea of representatives of the nation's grape growers.

Under present plan hearing on the wine and beer bill will last one week with prospects for a vote in the House on a measure before Christmas.

If prohibition legislation failed, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is expected to call an extra session after he is inaugurated March 4.

PROVISIONS LISTED

The Collier bill provides: Beer, lager beer, ale, port and similar fermented liquors containing not over 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight (which is about 3.50 per cent by volume) is legalized as non-intoxicating.

The tax is fixed at $5 dollars a barrel as compared with the present wartime tax of $6 a barrel. Brewers must be licensed with the government reserving power to revoke licenses.

Sale would be permitted either bottled or draught. No permit shall be issued to make liquor in dry states.

Beer cannot be shipped into dry states. Penalties under the Volstead act are retained.

The act shall take effect 30 days after its enactment. Permits can be issued in the meantime.

Wine made by natural fermentation without addition of alcohol is held not in violation of the 18th amendment.

A tax of 20 cents a gallon is placed on wine. Collier said he estimated an annual revenue of $300,000,000 from beer.

UNDERWOOD BACKS CLEVELAND SOL ON

Congressman Boosts Crossover For Speakership of House, He Declares.

WASHINGTON D. C., Dec. 6.—Mell G. Underwood, Congressman from the 11th Ohio district, today began a boom to have Representative Robert C. Crosser of Cleveland a permanent member of the House, elected as speaker to succeed John N. Garner.

Underwood declared he has received assurance that the 15 Ohio congressmen would vote solidly for Crosser, who is preparing to serve his 16th year in Congress. Since there are five or six other candidates for the high honors it is possible Crosser will be a compromise choice. Underwood pointed out in advancing the man's name.

Crosser is a native of Scotland, a graduate of Kenyon college and the Cincinnati school of law. One distinction he owns is that he defeated Robert J. Bulkley for the Democratic nomination in the 21st Ohio congressional district. He is a high ranking majority member of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee.

INDIANS DEFENDED

Dr. Howard Jones defended the American Indian and censured the practice of Spanish, French and English treating them savages when he addressed the Kiwanis club Monday evening at Hanley's theater.

Although restricted by lack of time, Dr. Jones' talk was interesting. He read from several translations of cruelties and tortures invoked by the foreigners into this country and asked why they would call anyone savages.

CLEARING HOUSE PLAN GAINING POWER; COMMITTEE IN CONFAB

Forty Persons Attend Conference Monday Evening With Various Plans Disclosed; Support of Organizations Is Promised.

Definite plans for a Social Service Clearing House were to be made at a meeting of representatives of various organizations doing charity work here this afternoon.

Members of the executive committee outlining definite plans include Frank A. Lynch, chairman; Mrs. William Betts Jr., secretary; Orren Dreisbach, Harry Bartholomew, Miss Clara Southward, John W. Hay and W. H. Cline.

Authorization of this group to meet to settle various questions was given at a meeting attended by 40 interested persons in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Monday evening. A motion made by G. P. Hunsicker, of Williamsport, giving this group authority to go ahead with plans and arrangements settled the question.

EXPLAIN OBJECTS

Dr. C. C. Watts, president of the Chamber of Commerce, back of the project, opened the meeting and Mr. Lynch explained the objects.

"This clearing house plan is being used by organizations and cities throughout the country and nearly 300 towns and cities in Ohio are handling charity information under the plans laid down. It has saved money wherever it has been used," Mr. Lynch pointed out, "and has prevented overlapping and duplication which we find here under the present system."

Backing of county commissioners, who were represented at the meeting by John W. Hay, president of the board; of the county school system, represented by E. L. Buchanan, of the E. P. O. Edinburg, represented by Harry Bartholomew, and of practically every other organization in the county was promised at the meeting.

Trustees from Madison, Darby, Washington, Walnut and Monroetwps were present.

FINANCE QUESTION

The question of finance was discussed during the session and it was generally felt by some of the members present that money should be taken from the license and Gas tax fund from which the county commissioners, Monday, received $7,500 to carry on their charity work.

MARRIED 52 YEARS

In May, 1930, Mr. and Mrs. Voll celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

He was a member of the St. Joseph's Catholic church of the local aerie of Eagles and the Independent order of Red Men.

Funeral services will be held from St. Joseph's church at 9 a. m. Friday. Rev. Joseph Hunsicker, pastor, officiating, with interment in St. Joseph's cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Voll are in charge of the funeral arrangements.

TRANSFER OF MONEY IS O. K.

Relief Commission Says $7,500 Can Be Taken From Gas Fund Here.

The State Relief Commission, Monday afternoon, approved the transfer by the Pickaway-co commissioners of $7,500 from the Automobile License and Gas tax fund to Direct Outside Poor Relief.

This fund, it is hoped, will carry the county's relief at least until February when the state makes its next distribution of taxes.

At present the poor fund is badly overgrown and unless this money was allowed to be transferred the situation in Pickaway-co would have been extremely difficult.

License and Gas fund has probably more money than any fund in the county and, even after all obligations and this $7,500 is taken out will have a balance of $40,000 at the first of the year, it is reported.

While one remained at the wheel of the gang's automobile, two of the bandits menaced Stasny and seized him before he could draw his pistol. The other two desperadoes pressed revolvers to Voelach's side, compelling him to relinquish the mail sack.

CAR DISAPPEARS

Throwing the sack into the rear of the car, the four who performed the actual holdup jumped in and were driven away by the fifth bandit. By the time Voelach and Stasny ran into the federal building shouting for help, the bandits' car had turned the corner and disappeared.

Federal authorities and Chicago police immediately spread an alarm and started an intensive search for the gang.

The mail sack contained 123 pieces of registered mail addressed to the First National and 40 pieces addressed to the First Union Trust and Savings bank. The exact value of the loot cannot be determined until registry records are checked.

"MARCHERS" GAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Jubilant over partial victory won at the last minute in the face of apparent defeat, the "hunger army" prepared to parade the streets of the national capital and send a small delegation to Congress today with the permission of authorities.

By dint of a "compromise" the 3,000 marchers won grudging permission for their demonstration—on the strength of a pledge to pack up and go home afterwards.

HIGHWAY SCANDAL ACTION IS HALTED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6.—Ohio's highway department bribery scandal, a nine-days' wonder which electrified the state in August, 1931, passed into oblivion today with the withdrawal of $50,000 slander action against State Senator David P. Lorfbach (D) of Cincinnati.

Attorneys for Clyde J. Knisley, who was named by Lorfbach as the man who allegedly offered him $250,000 to retire from a senate investigation of the highway department, declared that a settlement was reached out of court and that Knisley was "completely exonerated."

Mississippi Democrat Pre- sents Startling Measure Tuesday

PROVISIONS GIVEN

Would Return 300 Mil- lions, Asserts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Democratic bill to legalize light wines and beer was placed before the House today by Representative James W. Collier, Democrat of Mississippi, chairman of the Ways and Means committee.

The permitted alcohol percentage of beer was fixed at 2.75 per cent by weight to serve as a basis for hearing which will open tomorrow.

A similar bill which does not attempt to fix by statute the meaning of "intoxicant" was offered in the Senate by Senator Tydings, Democrat of Maryland, one of the Senate wet leaders.

This measure would amend the Volstead act by striking out the one half of one per cent definition of an intoxicant and substituting the word "intoxicating liquor."

TAX 16 CENTS

A tax of 16 cents per gallon would be imposed on all beer, ale, port, and "other similar fermented liquors" sold under the enactment.

At the end of three years this tax would be diverted to an "unemployment reserve fund."

Legalization of light wines was joined with the beer bill by Collier on the plea of representatives of the nation's grape growers.

Under present plan hearing on the wines and beer bill will last one week with prospects for a vote in the House on a measure before Christmas.

If prohibition legislation failed, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is expected to call an extra session after he is inaugurated March 4.

PROVISIONS LISTED

The Collier bill provides: Beer, Lager beer, ale, port and similar fermented liquors containing not over 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight (which is about 3.50 per cent by volume) is legalized as non-intoxicating.

The tax is fixed at $5 dollars a barrel as compared with the present wartime tax of $6 a barrel.

Brewers must be licensed with the government reserving power to revoke licenses.

Sale would be permitted either bottled or draught.

No permit shall be issued to make liquor in dry states.

Beer cannot be shipped into dry states.

Penalties under the Volstead act are retained.

The act shall take effect 30 days after its enactment. Permits can be issued in the meantime.

Wine made by natural fermentation without addition of alcohol is held not in violation of the 18th amendment.

A tax of 20 cents a gallon is placed on wine.

Collier said he estimated an annual revenue of $300,000,000 from beer.

UNDERWOOD BACKS CLEVELAND SOL ON

Congressman Boosts Cresser For Speakership of House, He Declares.

WASHINGTON D. C., Dec. 6.—Mell G. Underwood, Congressman from the 11th Ohio district, today began a boom to have Representative Robert Cresser of Cleveland veteran member of the House, elected as speaker to succeed John N. Garner.

Underwood declared he has received assurance that the 18 Ohio congressmen would vote solidly for Cresser, who is preparing to serve his 16th year in Congress. Since there are five or six other candidates for the high honors it is possible Cresser will be a compromise choice, Underwood pointed out in advancing the man's name.

Cresser is a native of Scotland, a graduate of Kenyon college and the Cincinnati school of law. One distinction he owns is that he defeated Robert J. Bulkley for the Democratic nomination in the 21st Ohio congressional district. He is a high ranking majority member of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce committees.

INDIANS DEFENDED

Dr. Howard Jones defended the American Indian and censured the practice of Spanish, French and English terming them "savages" when he addressed the Kiwanis club Monday evening at Hanley's tearoom.

Although restricted by lack of time, Dr. Jones' talk was interesting. He read from several translations of cruelties and tortures invoked by the foreigners into this country and asked why they would call anyone savage.

Restaurant Man, Retired Tailor, Ill Two Months Answers Call

FUNERAL IS FRIDAY

Widow and Seven Chil- dren Surviving

John Burkhardt Voll, 75, restaurant proprietor and widely known resident of Circleville, passed away at his home, 119 S. Washington-st at 8:15 p. m. Monday after an illness of six months of complications caused from a growth in his throat. Mr. Voll, a native of Stangenroth, Bavaria, Germany where he was born on January 2, 1857, the son of Burkhardt Cecilia Fohl Voll, emigrated to this country on September 17, 1873.

He took up his residence in Lancaster, Pa., where he worked as a tailor, having learned that trade from his father in Germany. On May 2, 1876 he came to Circleville and engaged in the tailoring business, and on May 20, 1880 he was married to Elizabeth Palm of this city who, with seven of the nine children born to this union survives.

7 CHILDREN SURVIVE

Children living are Mrs. T. D. Krimm, Elliott L. Voll, Mrs. J. C. Rader and Albert Voll of this city, G. C. Voll of Toledo, William H. Voll of Marietta, and Mrs. G. A. Snider of Union City, Ind. Of his immediate family a brother, Casper who resides in Germany and another brother, Joseph Voll of Marion, survive. He is also survived by three grandchildren.

He was widely known in Circleville having taken an active part in the business activities of the city of his adoption. After a number of years he retired from the tailoring business and that has been continued by his son, Elliott.

At the time of his death, however, Mr. Voll was engaged in the restaurant business. He often reminisced on his life in Germany and of the progress in the mode of transportation, always reminding his hearers that at the time of his coming to this country he was 17 days on the ocean, making the trip on the ship "Ohio," which was a new vessel at that time.

MARRIED 52 YEARS

In May, 1930, Mr. and Mrs. Voll celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

He was a member of the St. Joseph's Catholic church of the local aerie of Eagles and the Independent order of Red Men.

Funeral services will be held from St. Joseph's church at 9 a. m. Friday, Rev. Joseph Herman, pastor, officiating, with interment in St. Joseph's cemetery. Mader & Ebert are in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The measure was referred to the banking committee and early hearing will be sought.

Fight Over Diversion Of Gas Tax Money Looming

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—One of the most bitter fights ever to reach the floor of the Ohio legislature loomed today over proposed diversion of gasoline tax moneys.

At the coming session of the house in January, proposals for use of part of the gasoline tax for state support of schools or for direct, poor relief are expected to be offered.

Buckeye state motorists now pay a four cent state tax and a one cent federal assessment on every gallon of gasoline used in autos. As the amount is far under that of a few other states, an attempt may even be made to increase the gas tax. Offhand, however, any such attempt appeared doomed.

SOME ARE HIGHER

Alabama, in some sections, has a tax of 11 cents a gallon and Florida and Mississippi have taxes of nine cents.

A gasoline tax was first seized upon as a revenue creating measure in 1919 by the state of Oregon when a one cent levy was proposed to congress in 1915 by President Wilson but it was "piggeon-holed."

It proved a popular tax and every state in the union followed suit. Ohio enacted its first tax, a two-cent levy, in 1925. The amount of tax and the revenue derived from it since that time is shown in the following table:

1925	2 cents	$ 9,009,950
1926	2 cents	13,257,266
1927	3 cents	19,910,681
1928	3 cents	24,885,699
1929	4 cents	34,082,188
1930	4 cents	37,081,451
1931	4 cents	39,328,053.

Only one other state derives a greater sum from its gas tax. That is California, which collected $39,863,637 in 1931.

SOME IN COUNTIES

Besides state and federal levies, a few scattered states have county and city gasoline taxes. They include cities in Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri and New Mexico and scattered counties in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

In Ohio, 56 1-4 per cent of the amount collected goes to the state highway department, 18 3-4 is divided among cities on basis of automobile registration, 16 1-4 to counties, equally and 8 3-4 to townships equally, for use in road construction and maintenance.

"During the past year, townships and cities have used the money for direct poor relief by authority of the state tax commission which approved transfer of the gas tax moneys to the general funds, from where it was voted out for poor relief. It is a somewhat involved procedure and an attempt may be made at the legislature to simplify matters."

If part of the gas tax moneys should be diverted to state support of the schools, Ohio would not be establishing a precedent. Georgia has a one cent tax for the schools, Florida has a similar levy for state general fund, part of which goes to the school, and Louisiana devotes money from 1-2 a cent levy to needy parishes for education.

At the time the Ohio law was first passed, a movement was started to make the state auditor's office the collection agency. It was ruled out, however, as it would have placed the auditor's office in the position of checking its own accounts as well as the accounts of other state departments. In charge of the work now is the state tax commission.

55 DO COLLECTING

Ohio has a total staff of 55 persons engaged in collecting the gas tax. There are 36 in the office in Columbus, seven in the field, 17 special agents on evasion and a border patrol of 12 men.

The border patrol was established to prevent smuggling of gasoline from one state to another to evade the tax.

Evasion of the tax has become a gigantic illicit business. In 1931, according to the best available estimate, states were fleeced of $10,000,000 by gasoline "bootleggers."

Five ways of evasion have been uncovered, namely, blending, re-funds and exemptions, smuggling, inadequate administration and diversion of railroad shipments.

taxes, have not been prolific of income. Further revenue is necessary in addition to the reduction in expenditures. Many of the manufacturers' excise taxes upon selected industries not only failed to produce satisfactory revenue, but are unjust and discriminatory.

TO BALANCE BUDGET
"The time has come when, if the government is to have an adequate basis of revenue to assure a balanced budget, this system of special manufacturers' excise taxes should be extended to cover practically all manufacturers at a uniform rate, except necessary food and possibly some clothing."

In line with his recommendation of drastic curtailment of federal expenditures, Mr. Hoover proposed no new federal building projects and temporary, at least, discontinuance of the federal government's aid to the states in road building. He had praise for the past two years, saying they had aided employment, but he thought the condition of the federal treasury would not warrant their continuance.

As for further federal economy, he proposed a flat 11 per cent reduction in governmental salaries above $1,000, and promised to submit his recommendation for consolidating and re-grouping over 50 executive and administrative agencies.

He also declared his intention of recommending widespread slashes in the governmental payments to World War veterans.

SHORTEST REPORT
The message Mr. Hoover sent to the capitol was not only his final report on the state of the nation, but it was the shortest of such documents that he has submitted.

In conclusion, he expressed in philosophic vein his views on the American system of government. "We have builded," he said, "a system of individualism peculiarly our own which must not be forgotten in any governmental acts, for from it have grown greater accomplishments than those of any other nation."

The federal government, he said, "should act as a regulatory agent in national affairs, and not as a participant in economic and social life."

"The moment the government participates," he concluded, "it becomes a competitor with the people. As a competitor, it becomes at once a tyranny in whatever direction it may touch."

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor, Circleville Herald.

The proposed bond issue of $23,000, the proceeds from which are to be used for the purchase of the Calcar Sewage Disposal Plant, comes before Council for the third and final reading next Wednesday evening, December 7, 1932. At the last two readings of the resolution provided for this bond issue all members of Council with the exception of one voted in its favor. It therefore appears that the bond issue will pass Council next, Wednesday evening unless the citizens of Circleville register their protest to their respective Councilmen.

This is an important question and should be the concern of every taxpayer. If this bond issue is passed it means that the City of Circleville has increased its bonded indebtedness to its legal limit; that under existing laws no further bonds can be issued to provide for some unforeseen emergency or catastrophe with out the delay of a special election and that taxes will be increased approximately $1.07 for each $1,000 of tax value—or some form of assessment made.

The question then is whether the building of a sewage disposal plant at this time is worth the bonding of our city to its legal limit and the accompanying increase in taxes. This is particularly pertinent when one considers that our current budget already has a deficit of approximately $12,000; that Council is now considering ways and means of reducing expenses as evidenced by the proposal to reduce the number of street lights, fire hydrants and reduction in firemen's and policemen's salaries.

The purchase or construction of a sewage disposal plant at this time or at any time before the City of Columbus creates and has in operation any adequate sewage disposal system is foolish and unnecessary. The question is not whether the Calcar System is the best or whether some other system is better but simply that no disposal system of any kind is needed until Columbus eliminates its pollution of the Scioto River.

The only argument advanced in favor of the purchase of a sewage disposal plant at this time which is worthy of consideration is that the proposition offered by the Calcar people is a bargain and should be taken advantage of even though it will increase our already burdensome taxes and put the City in debt to its legal limit.

We do not believe that this argument is valid. In the first place, why not build this same sewage disposal system at some future time when the need of a sewage disposal system for Circleville is a necessity? Even though construction costs were higher in the future it would follow that money would be more plentiful and the people better able to pay their taxes. Certainly reproduction value of the Calcar plant is very liberally covered by the consideration, $23,000.

In the second place, the probabilities are that it will be five to ten years before Columbus completes its sewage disposal system, if then. But let us consider the minimum period, five years. Based on estimates furnished by the Calcar people (which is certainly open to question because of the capacity of the present plant and the short experience period upon which the estimates are based) it is estimated that the minimum operating cost of this proposed system would be $10,000 per year.

Now if Columbus should happen to clean up its pollution of the Scioto River within the next five years and Circleville forced to build a disposal system, the delay of five years would mean a saving of $50,000 at least in operating costs plus the initial purchase and construction costs, $23,000 making a total of at least $73,000 saved. This saving would certainly compensate the City for any loss due to its failure to take advantage of the present "bargain."

If you, Mr. Citizen, are against the City of Circleville purchasing a sewage disposal plant at this time it is certainly to your interest to see your Councilman before Wednesday evening and register your protest with him.

Sincerely,
A TAXPAYER

This is an important question and should be the concern of every taxpayer. If this bond issue is passed it means that the City of Circleville has increased its bonded indebtedness to its legal limit; that under existing laws no further bonds can be issued to provide for some unforeseen emergency or catastrophe with out the delay of a special election and that taxes will be increased approximately $1.07 for each $1,000 of tax value—or some form of assessment made.

The question then is whether the building of a sewage disposal plant at this time is worth the bonding of our city to its legal limit and the accompanying increase in taxes. This is particularly pertinent when one considers that our current budget already has a deficit of approximately $12,000; that Council is now considering ways and means of reducing expenses as evidenced by the proposal to reduce the number of street lights, fire hydrants and reduction in firemen's and policemen's salaries.

The purchase or construction of a sewage disposal plant at this time or at any time before the City of Columbus erects and has in operation any adequate sewage disposal system is foolish and unnecessary. The question is not whether the Calcar System is the best or whether some other system is better but simply that no disposal system of any kind is needed until Columbus eliminates its pollution of the Scioto River.

The only argument advanced in favor of the purchase of a sewage disposal plant at this time which is worthy of consideration is that the proposition offered by the Calcar people is a bargain and should be taken advantage of even though it will increase our already burdensome taxes and put the City in debt to its legal limit.

We do not believe that this argument is valid. In the first place, why not build this same sewage disposal system at some future time when the need of a sewage disposal system for Circleville is a necessity? Even though construction costs were higher in the future it would follow that money would be more plentiful and the people better able to pay their taxes. Certainly, the reproduction value of the physical assets of the Calcar plant is very liberally covered by the consideration, $23,000.

In the second place, the probabilities are that it will be five to ten years before Columbus completes its sewage disposal system, if then. But let us consider the minimum period, five years. Based on estimates furnished by the Calcar people (which is certainly open to question because of the capacity of the present plant and the short experience period upon which the estimates are based) it is estimated that the minimum operating cost of this proposed system would be $10,000 per year.

Now if Columbus should happen to clean up its pollution of the Scioto River within the next five years and Circleville forced to build a disposal system, the delay of five years would mean a saving of $50,000 at least in operating costs plus the initial purchase and construction costs, $23,000 making a total of at least $73,000 saved. This saving would certainly compensate the City for any loss due to its failure to take advantage of the present "bargain."

If you, Mr. Citizen, are against the City of Circleville purchasing a sewage disposal plant at this time it is certainly to your interest to see your Councilman before Wednesday evening and register your protest with him.

Sincerely,
A TAXPAYER

More Price-Fixing
THIS season it isn't the "farm loans," "debentures" or "equalization fees." The newest and latest thing in farm relief is the "allotment plan."
Congressman Rainey, Democratic floor leader of the house and possible next speaker, is for it. Senator Norbeck conceived the scheme. And proponents of the plan claim the benefit of the president-elect. Although he has not publicly expressed an opinion. This is the allotment plan as now advanced: It would be applied to hogs, cotton and wheat for one year as an experiment. The farmer would be given a bonus on such part of his product as is required by the home market. For some reason not stated on foreign products competing with him would be the measure of his bonus. The bonus on wheat being 42 cents a bushel, the American wheat grower would be given, in cash or certificate, a bonus of 42 cents a bushel on the percentage of his crop required for the home market. Who would pay the bonus? The consumer through the miller. This is an attempt to fix prices by indirect means. But would it accomplish its purpose to give the producer a fair return on his labor and capital? Isn't it more likely that the bonus would be figured in the price all along the line and that, other conditions remaining unchanged, wheat selling for 45 cents a bushel before the bonus would still bring 45 cents, including the bonus, after the allotment plan became effective?
The most that can be said for the price-fixing advocates is that they will not admit they are licked.

Bay State Preparedness
MASSACHUSETTS, one of the first wet states, will not be caught napping if and when federal prohibition legislation is modified or repealed. Governor Ely has already named a commission to frame a liquor control act that the state may not be without liquor control even for a short time.
Modification of the Volstead act may be a matter of but a few weeks and is certain to take the form of legalizing beer of sufficient alcoholic content to make state designate by whom and under what restrictions it is to be sold.
State control will supplant federal control. Some states may again legalize the saloon, which never really disappeared, or permit the unrestricted sale of beer. Others will adopt a Canadian system which bans all public drinking. A few will require new legislation.
It is not too early to consider state substitutes. Snap judgment or haste is to be avoided. Never again must the country or any part of it rush into uncharted territory as far as Old John Barleycorn is concerned unless it craves excitement and much grief. Timely consideration is essential to a prudent and successful solution.

Ohio motor vehicles until 1908 were licensed by the municipality in which they were owned and operated, at $5.00 per year.

The only classification of motor vehicles to show increase since 1930 is trailers, with a gain of one-third.

HEART STRINGS

By EDWINA L. MACDONALD
COPYRIGHT, 1932 BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER FORTY

In her fortnight away Patricia had told her father of her letter to Jimmie and what she proposed. He seemed undisturbed.

Exactly what her feeling for Jack was, she never analyzed. She had welcomed his arrival in Paris as she had always welcomed him in Palm Beach.

She wrote Jimmie long heart-burning letters from Paris in which she reiterated her love and her impatience. He wrote her brief, but tender letters telling little beyond the fact that his feeling for her was unchanged. He was but waiting for Pam to take some action. They lived under the same roof, went about together; but the door between their rooms had never opened. Since that night in Palm Beach they had not so much as exchanged a kiss or a goodbye or greeting when one or the other went away for a few days.

But time went on, and Pamela made no move, gave no hint of her intention. She wrote to Patricia and her father jointly; chatty outside letters, telling them all that went on around her, all she was doing, but nothing from the inside of her.

Patricia didn't like to think of Pamela. When thoughts like nauseous maggots gnawed at her consciousness, she would throw them out, assuring herself with fierce determination that she had done no wrong to Aunt Pam. Had Aunt Pam not really left Jimmie in her heart, even before that winter in Palm Beach? But why was she staying on . . . if not because she hoped for some adjustment other than a Paris divorce?

She chafed against her situation, but it was not her way to brood. Both she and Jack were studying, working faithfully. Their play hours were spent together. They prowled the city; joined the Montparnasse satellites at the sidewalk cafes of evenings, had part in the unending arguments while they watched the strange motley life of the boulevards go by. Often, too, Jack carried her away to one of the grand cafes where the Montparnasse crowd went not.

"Is there any place in the world so perfect as the Bois on a Spring night?" sighed Patricia.

They were driving in a close little cab, with the top thrown back. White roads winding. Old trees huddled in velvet shadows. Black waters gleaming between. Gentle rumpling fanning their cheeks, rumpling her perfumed hair. Above them the great silver moon swam in pale seas.

"I think I'll have to be going home soon," he said presently. "It's time I settled down to work. I'm twenty-seven and not started."

"Somehow, I can't imagine Paris without you," she said with a catch at her heart. "You've become part of it."

"No, I haven't become part of it. I've merely yielded myself to it because of what it held. I don't like it. There's something exotic and strained here; a determined gaiety that doesn't ring true to me."

"I feel like that sometimes. And I grow homesick. But of course, I've no home to go back to," she said. And immediately she wished she hadn't added that last.

"Poor little girl." He put his arm around her. Not as a lover, but as a friend.

She had an impulse toward resistance; then she let him draw her gently against him. There was something very comforting about the feel of his arm, even a little exciting. She was all at once lonely and oppressed. The heavy perfume of magnolias and lilacs and cape-jasmine weighted her senses. The moonlight and the soft night air were doing something to her.

"I wish I might take you home with me, Pat," he said in a low voice.

"Yes. . . I wish you might too, Jack. . . ." She was suddenly aware of this strange wish. "But I'm afraid things haven't changed with me. It may never come to anything; but—" She broke off. "Tell me about your home, Jack—the one you plan to have."

"It's already there," he said. "I shall have my offices in Richmond; but I'll live on the plantation. The house is just ten miles out. I wish you could see it, Pat. A big rambling two-story house, with heavy white columns and green blinds, and almost covered with ivy. There's a long oak avenue leading from the yard to the river road."

She put her hands quickly over her face. "Oh, don't. It's like my old home. Only most of the oaks had gone into the river before I was born. The house had been moved back; but the big ivy roots were moved too, and they had covered it by the time I left for boarding school. I never saw it again. . . . How Dadams can endure it here—"

Jack's arm tightened about her. "Pat, couldn't you come with me? Since Mother's death, Dad has lived in the town house. Your father would love the old place. And you like to be with me, don't you, dear? You'll miss me, won't you?"

"Yes, terribly. But—" "Don't you think in time my love would win some return?"

She lifted her face from her hands and looked up at him, her eyes shining with tears. "Your love has already won considerable return," she smiled. "But it doesn't seem fair to give you less than the best. I wish—oh, Jack, I'm a plantation girl. Montparnasse seems so tawdry to one who has lived in white houses with big columns and green blinds; lived with lilacs and magnolias and jasmine, peach trees, a mass of pink bloom in Spring, and white cotton in Fall—it's so noisy and disquieting here."

"Dearest, if I know, and am willing to take you with second best, and trust to time—" "I shouldn't let you; but that other is—futile—going on and on—and I don't see how I can go on here—in Montparnasse. At first they were novel and amusing, but there's something hard and small under their bright talk. They are as intolerant as the intolerant ones they preach about; and a great deal more savage in their intolerance. But for you and Dadams I'd have found them unbearable at times. And now you're going."

His arms tightened around her. "I'm going to take you with me. I won't leave you here."

"All right, Jack," she said breathlessly, "but let me out of your arms a minute. I'll come back. I want to tell you something."

His arms loosened. She did not draw entirely out of them. "I'll go back with you," she stared straight ahead. "I want to. Not just to get away from them; or because I'm homesick and love the picture of your home. But because I want to be with you. . . . Wait, Jack. . . . I wasn't terribly sick of them nor terribly anxious to go home till you told me you were going. . . . But there's one thing I want to ask of you. . . . don't kiss me. . . . If you kissed me I mightn't go. . . . Do you understand. . . . I might compare. . . ."

"Yes, I understand," he said huskily. "But if you're afraid of that now—what about afterward?"

"Yes, I understand," he said huskily. "But if you're afraid of that now—what about afterward?"

CHAPTER FORTY

"Well, then—don't you see—that was my first real kiss. Perhaps no other kiss can ever quite compare with it. . . . even if one loves more. But in marriage there comes—other experience—that dwarfs a kiss—and perhaps one doesn't remember to make comparisons."

His arms closed convulsively around her. "There's something in you, Pat, that dwarfs all other women," he whispered.

"It's a little bit of the spirit of my Dadams in me," she said simply. Adding, "but it's only a pinch. I'm really a very doubtful character. Just a lot of good paint not yet formed on the canvas."

He laughed happily. The cab stopped. "Why, the cabman must have raced."

During dinner in the garden of the Cafe Madrid they danced. And gazing over Jack's nice shoulder into the overhanging trees strung with colored lights, Patricia felt that she had not been so at peace in many months. There was something in the strong pressure of his arm—not thrilling; but reassuring and satisfying. Within that arm one found courage to go on.

They scarcely talked on the way home, giving themselves silently to the beauty of the Bois in Spring-time under a flooding moon—and to a new-old beauty within themselves.

He left her at her door, a song of hope in his heart.

"There's a cable for you, Patricia, on the victrola," called her father as she closed the door.

A cable. . . . her heart seemed to stop. . . . she tore it open. . . . Jimmie. . . . in London. . . . coming to see her tomorrow. . . . Her knees gave. She sat down quickly to save herself from falling. Tomorrow—Jimmie. . . .

Upon his arrival, Jimmie had phoned her to meet him at The Regence.

Almost his first words, after giving their dinner order, had been, "Pat, Pam is coming to Paris to get her divorce. She's probably on her way now."

For some reason this word for which she had waited so long, and so eagerly, shocked her immeasurably. All the maggot-like thoughts she had locked in the secret places, refusing them the open of her conscious mind, jumped out as by the release of a spring lock.

So you've succeeded. . . . You little beast. . . . She didn't want to give him up and you know it, or she wouldn't have held on a whole year. . . . But you wouldn't let go of him. . . . Kept writing him burning letters. . . . She used to hold you on her lap when you were a tiny thing and tell you stories. . . . She loved you. And you've taken her husband away from her. . . . You are a vile, sneaking little reptile. . . . Well, now it's done. . . . Why didn't you think of all this sooner?

She felt sick. Her voice emerged, very faint and small: "On account of—me, Jimmie?"

"No, dear. On account of another woman."

Another woman. . . . Of course she hadn't heard him right. . . . But yes. . . . He had said it quite plainly. . . . Another woman. . . .

A landslide set up inside her head, sweeping all visible life from sight. Another woman. . . . another woman. . . . Then Jimmie hadn't gone on loving her, longing for her all this while. And he hadn't returned to Aunt Pam. . . . She could have borne that. . . . But another woman. . . . Oh, no. It was too hideous. . . .

Miss Theo Keith, singer and musician of rare ability does a lot of triple-tongue and trick stuff on the cornet with a flaming sense of rhythm and syncopation. Also her song spot with her sister, Mary Keith, and Harry Berry, using violin, guitar and cornet accompaniment is a show stopper.

"Sherlock Holmes," the new Fox picture, based on one of Conan Doyle's most thrilling tales, comes to the Grand Theatre Tuesday.

Clive Brook, who plays the great detective, finds himself, in conjunction with Scotland Yard, pitted against the arch criminal, Moriarty, and a band of gangsters recruited from both sides of the Atlantic.

How Moriarty sets his traps, which are quickly sprung by Holmes, and how the detective exterminates the gang and sends Moriarty to the death cell, forms the basis of what is said to be one of the most thrilling and exciting screen dramas ever produced.

Minna Jordan, English stage beauty, who made her film debut in "Six Hours to Live," opposite Warner Baxter and John Boles, enacts the leading feminine part, sharing the romantic interest with Brook. Ernest Torrence, outstanding in menace parts, portrays the role of Moriarty's Reginald Owen, distinguished English actor, well known on both the stage and screen, appears as Dr. Watson, devoted friend and ally of Holmes.

Food-Poisoning Should Not Be Treated Lightly
Some Cases Are Extremely Dangerous, Says Dr. Copeland, Urging Immediate and Expert Aid

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

MANY PERSONS use the term "ptomaine poisoning," when in reality they are referring to food poisoning. Ptomaine poisoning is an expression rapidly disappearing from scientific literature.

Food poisoning may be traced to germs in contaminated food. The germs liberate poisons or "toxins" which are detrimental to the body. Food poisoning, so called, is caused by swallowing these toxins.

The signs of trouble vary from slight nausea and headache, to severe vomiting, abdominal pain and extreme prostration. Some cases of food poisoning are extremely dangerous.

Contests For Positions On Court Teams Heated

Rockbridge Boys and Girls Come Here Friday Even- ing; Fry Off Lid.

With their opening encounter of the season only three days in the offing, the Rockbridge High school's Tiger cage squad has been taping off in the last few days preparing to meet Rockbridge here.

Coach "Pete" Herberholz in the practice sessions thus far has been stressing the fact that a fast passing offensive is necessary in order to give this year's squad any breaks.

With the starting whistle but just a few days off the battle for first string positions has been becoming hotter right along and each night some new contender moves into the fight to make the Tiger mentor's selection of a first string quintet more difficult.

FRENK SHOWS CLASS

Six men thus far are in the field making a bid for the two forward posts, with Leasure and Frenk seemingly having the edge on John Jenkins, Billy Steele, Ben Friece, Bill Hegele and Tom Kirwin.

While they are also embroiled in the fight for a forward berth, Friece and Hegele are also vying for the tip off position with Joe Jenkins running a close third. Hegele is however given the preference over the other two.

Eight of Herberholz' hopefuls have been fighting it out for the guard positions with the nod in all probability going to White and Hundley while Skaggs, Clitt, Porter, Speakman, Hitchcock and Rooney will be held back for reserve power.

WITHHOLD SELECTION

Coach Herberholz is undecided as yet as to just whom will be the starting lineup and he will in all probability withhold his selection until Friday night's game with the Rockbridge quintet on the Tiger floor.

Miss Elma Rans, girl's coach, has been having a difficult time in the selection of her cage squad and the probable first team she will start against the Rockbridge girls on their visit into the Tiger lair Friday night.

The battle in the girl's teams thus far seems to be in the selection of the guard positions with four girls trying hard for the position and with Rader and Harper in all probability getting the nod for the start and Scott being held for substitution.

Brown and Bennett seem to have clinched the forward while Hilyard will probably perform at center and Henderson keeping time at the side center.

Simmons, of Greenfield, will referee both contests Friday night.

POP WARNER JOINS TEMPLE UNIVERSITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—A lot of color and personality will be lost to Pacific coast football with the departure of that grand old warrior, Glenn Soogie (Pop) Warner, not to mention probably the most deceptive and intricate grid offense ever devised by mortal brain.

The "old fox"—he's 61 now—is leaving Stanford, his berth for the past nine years, to pioneer in new fields, Temple University, in Philadelphia.

Pop got tired of the alumni, especially in Southern California, snapping at his heels, and just up and signed a juicy contract dangled before him by Temple.

The move is typical of Warner. He's been a restless spirit, a grid-iron pioneer all his life.

"It'll be fun," he grumbles, "taking over a new school; one that's coming along athletically."

REPORT HANLEY TO GET WARNER'S JOB

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 6.—Dane rumor prepared another tasty tidbit for football fans today. It was whispered about the Northwestern university campus that Dick Hanley, coach of the Wildcats, has received an offer to take the vacated job of Glenn S. "Pop" Warner at Stanford.

Reports have it that Hanley is being favored by Stanford authorities above all other prospective candidates to succeed "Pop." It was said that the Northwestern coach is giving the matter serious consideration.

But, Hanley refused to comment on the rumor.

SPARTANS TO PLAY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6.—Portsmouth's Spartans, probable winners of the national professional football championship following their victory over the Green Bay Packers Sunday, will play a team of Ohio all-stars in an exhibition game at Neil Park here Sunday, it was announced today.

DIDRIKSON 'OUT'

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, the one-woman track and field team from Dallas, Texas, has run her last race, put her last shot, cleared her last high jump bar, etc., etc., as an amateur.

That is, it's "taps" for the two-time Olympic champion if the edict of the National A. A. U., announced today by Secretary Daniel J. Ferris stands up. Louis De Benedetto, the fiery chairman of the registration committee of the south association, which has control of "The Babe," is expected to have plenty to say about the disbarment of the world's greatest woman athlete.

An advertisement, which appeared in last Sunday's papers, prompted the A. A. U.'s action. It contained a picture of Miss Didrikson, hurdling.

WINTER SPORTS AT OHIO STATE FEWER

Curtailment Caused By Lower
Revenues; Track Activities
Low.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6.—Basketball is assured the limelight during the winter season at Ohio State University with fencing, gymnastics, wrestling, swimming, polo, rifle, shooting and pistol shooting now on an in-annual basis.

Survives with basketball on the varsity calendar but it will be considerably curtailed during the winter season so far as trips are concerned.

The Buckeye quintet travels to Toledo University Dec. 6 to open the indoor campaign. It opens the home season against Ohio Wesleyan on Dec. 10 at the State Fair grounds, entertains Notre Dame two weeks later, and plays Vanderbilt at Nashville on New Year's eve.

Swimming and polo teams also slated for action prior to Jan. 1, will have their first competition on foreign fields. The tank squad will meet club and Y. M. C. A. squads at Akron, Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton and several other Ohio cities during the Christmas holidays.

The Buckeye horsemen take their annual trip to the International Livestock Show in Chicago where they meet the Chicago University polo team in a series of exhibition matches.

With no shoulder to shoulder matches scheduled, the pistol and rifle teams will limit their competition mainly to telegraphic matches. For the remaining teams intramural permit, and outstanding individuals will be selected for Western Conference championship meets.

PACKERS POSSESS HIGHEST RECORD

Gain Most Yards and Score
Most Points Although Losing Title.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The Green Bay Packers have lost the National Football League crown; they held for three seasons but the Wisconsin squad is the leading offensive team of the circuit, according to league statistics.

Green Bay has gained 2610 yards and scored 152 points this season putting it ahead in both yardage and counters. The Chicago Bears still have a chance to gain the offensive rating however in their meeting with the Packers next Sunday in Chicago. The Bears have 142 points and 2343 yards gained.

The New York Giants wound up the season undisputed forward passers of the circuit. The Giants completed 87 out of 188 passes for an average of better than 41 per cent, which proves the aerial game far from a gamble.

Police Doubt Suicide Pact Story of "Lothario" Killer

Small-Town Sheik Held Weird Power Over Fifteen-
Year-Old Church Organist He Slew During
Midnight Love Tryst.

CHARLES ARWINE

That he held a weird, Svengali-like power over his victim, against which she was powerless, is the startling theory that has grown out of the murder of Frances Rempher, church organist of Newtown, Pa., by Charles Arwine, married Lothario and father of three children, who confessed the crime. Missing for two weeks, the girl's murdered body was found under an old mattress in a thicket not far from her home. Known to have been intimate with the dead girl against her parents' wishes, Arwine was questioned and, after a severe grilling, broke down and confessed that he had killed the girl as part of a suicide pact, but that he lacked the courage to complete the agreement. However, police scoff at the suicide pact theory, it being their contention that Arwine lured the girl to the midnight love tryst to silence her forever. He had been warned by the victim's father, Charles Rempher, to keep away from Frances, but continued to exercise a strange fascination for her. The father had preferred statutory charges against him and it is believed that it was to prevent Frances testifying that he killed her. Intimates of the murdered girl told of the strange power wielded over her by the rustic Romeo. Daily, they said, she prayed to be freed from the spell that made her obey Arwine's every wish. To the townspeople, Frances was known as a demure, good-living girl, who was popular with all who knew her.

DEAD MEN-AND TALE

CHICAGO—Nearly $8,000,000 invested by Chicago in ten incomplete school buildings is going to waste because there is no money with which to finish the structures, a survey revealed. Officials declare there is no immediate prospect of obtaining funds to finish the buildings.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo.—Wyoming gold-seekers are trying to trace the origin of a hen recently killed by Mrs. Dan Prentice of Rock Springs. In the hen's gizzard she found several bits of metal, unmistakably gold nuggets. Mrs. Prentice thought the fowl was one of a number she had purchased from a ranch in Utah.

"Are you telling me America has no entangling alliances with Europe?"—Insult.

Contests For Positions On Court Teams Heated

Rockbridge Boys and Girls Come Here Friday Evening; Pry Off Lid.

With their opening encounter of the season only three days in the offing Circleville High school's Tiger cage squad has been tapering off in the last few days preparing to meet Rockbridge here.

Coach "Pete" Herberholz in the practice sessions thus far has been stressing the fact that a fast passing offense is necessary in order to give this year's squad any breaks.

With the starting whistle but just a few days off the battle for first string positions has been coming hotter right along and each night some new contender moves into the fight to make the Tiger mentor's selection of a first string quintet more difficult.

FRENK SHOWS CLASS
Six men thus far are in the field making a bid for the two forward posts, with Leasure and Frenk seemingly having the edge on John Jenkins, Billy Steele, Bob Friece, Bill Hegele and Tom Kirwin.

While they are also embroiled in the fight for a forward berth Friece and Hegele are also vying for the tip off position with Joe Jenkins running a close third. Hegele is however given the preference over the other two.

Eight of Herberholz' hopefuls have been fighting it out for the guard positions with the nod in all probability going to White and Hundley while Skaggs, Glitt, Porter, Speakman, Hitchcock and Rooney will be held back for reserve power.

WITHHOLD SELECTION
Coach Herberholz is undecided as yet as to just whom will be the starting lineup and he will in all probability withhold his selection until Friday night's game with the Rockbridge quintet on the Tiger floor.

Miss Elma Rains, girl's coach, has been having a difficult time in the selection of her cage squad and the probable first team she will start against the Rockbridge girls on their visit into the Tiger lair Friday night.

The battle in the girl's teams thus far seems to lie in the selection of the guard positions with four girls trying hard for the position and with Rader and Harper in all probability getting the nod for the start and Morris and Scott being held for substitutions.

Brown and Bennett seem to have clinched the forward while Hilyard will probably perform at center and Henderson keeping time at the side center.

Simmons, of Greenfield, will referee both contests Friday night.

POP WARNER JOINS TEMPLE UNIVERSITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—A lot of color and personality will be lost to Pacific coast football with the departure of that grand old warrior, Glenn Soogey, (Pop) Warner, not to mention probably the most deceptive and intricate grid offense ever devised by mortal brain.

The "old fox"—he's 61 now—is leaving Stanford, his berth for the past nine years, to pioneer in new fields, Temple university, in Philadelphia.

Pop got tired of the alumni, especially in Southern California, snapping at his heels, and just up and signed a juicy contract dangled before him by Temple.

The move is typical of Warner. He's been a restless spirit, a gridiron pioneer all his life.

"It'll be fun," he grumbles, "taking over a new school; one that's coming along athletically."

REPORT HANLEY TO GET WARNER'S JOB

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 6.—Dame rumor prepared another tasty tidbit for football fans today. It was whispered about the Northwestern university campus that Dick Hanley, coach of the Wildcats, has received an offer to take the vacated job of Glenn S. "Pop" Warner at Stanford.

Reports have it that Hanley is being favored by Stanford authorities above all other prospective candidates to succeed "Pop." It was said that the Northwestern coach is giving the matter serious consideration.

But, Hanley refused to comment on the rumor.

SPARTANS TO PLAY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6.—Portsmouth's Spartans, probable winners of the national professional football championship following their victory over the Green Bay Packers Sunday, will play a team of Ohio all-stars in an exhibition game at Neil Park here Sunday, it was announced today.

DIDRIKSON 'OUT'

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, the one-woman track and field team from Dallas, Texas, has run her last race, put her last shot, cleared her last high jump bar, etc., etc., as an amateur.

That is, it's "taps" for the two-time Olympic champion if the eldest of the National A. A. U., announced today by Secretary Daniel J. Ferris stands up. Louis De Benedetto, the fiery chairman of the registration committee of the south association, which has control of "The Babe," is expected to have plenty to say about the disbaring of the world's greatest woman athlete.

An advertisement, which appeared in last Sunday's papers, prompted the A. A. U.'s action. It contained a picture of Miss Didrikson, hurdling.

WINTER SPORTS AT OHIO STATE FEWER

Curtailment Caused By Lower
Revenues; Track Activities Low.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6.—Basketball is assured the limelight during the winter season at Ohio State University with fencing, gymnastics, wrestling, swimming, polo, rifle, shooting and pistol shooting now on an Inland tour.

The Buckeye quintet travels to Toledo University Dec. 6 to open the indoor campaign. It opens the home season against Ohio Wesleyan on Dec. 10 at the State Fair grounds, entertains Notre Dame two weeks later, and plays Vanderbilt at Nashville on New Year's eve.

Swimming and polo teams also slated for action prior to Jan. 1, will have their first competition on foreign fields. The tank squad will meet club and Y. M. C. A. squads at Akron, Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton and several other Ohio cities during the Christmas holidays. The Buckeye horsemen take their annual trip to the International Livestock Show in Chicago where they meet the Chicago University polo team in a series of exhibition matches.

With no shoulder to shoulder matches scheduled, the pistol and rifle teams will limit their competition mainly to telegraphic matches. For the remaining teams, intramural permit, and outstanding individuals will be selected for Western Conference championship meets.

PACKERS POSSESS HIGHEST RECORD

Gain Most Yards and Score
Most Points Although Losing Title.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The Green Bay Packers have lost the National Football League crown they held for three seasons but the Wisconsin squad is the leading offensive team of the circuit, according to league statistics. Green Bay has gained 2610 yards and scored 152 points this season putting it ahead in both yardage and counters. The Chicago Bears still have a chance to gain the offensive rating however in their meeting with the Packers next Sunday in Chicago. The Bears have 142 points and 2543 yards gained.

The New York Giants wound up the season undisputed forward passers of the circuit. The Giants completed 87 out of 188 passes for an average of better than 41 per cent, which proves the aerial game far from a gamble.

WILDCATS VICTORS; WOLVERINES LOSE

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 6.—Northwestern university's basketball prospects shone brightly today following a non-conference 44 to 19 victory last night over Bradley Tech in the season's first game.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 6.—Michigan's basketball quintet smarted under a 37 to 31 defeat handed the Wolverines last night by Western State Teachers' college in the first game of the new season.

LEAGUE OPENS

Tonight marks the opening encounters in the newly organized Pickaway-co Basketball League at Commercial Point when six teams will start in a regular schedule.

Starkey's Cleaners, local franchise holders in the league, will meet Commercial Point, while Williams Grocers meet the Walnut Tigers and Kirk's Furniture ties into the Shop Rovers.

The local outfit is composed of Carl Purcell and Judy Gordon at forwards, Zeke Zeimer at center, Jaggy Davis and Pete Stout as guards and Al Van Fossen as a substitute forward.

DEER ME!

MERRITT, B. C.—Frightened by hunters, a deer has taken up its domicile at the home of Joseph Gladson on the Hastings ranch. It spends most of its time on the front verandah of the ranch house. When strangers appear, the animal goes through the house and out the back door.

Police Doubt Suicide Pact Story of "Lothario" Killer

Small-Town Sheik Held Weird Power Over Fifteen-
Year-Old Church Organist He Slew During
Midnight Love Tryst.

CHARLES ARNWINE

That he held a weird, Svengali-like power over his victim, against which she was powerless, is the startling theory that has grown out of the murder of Frances Rempher, church organist of Newtown, Pa., by Charles Arnwine, married Lothario and father of three children, who confessed the crime. Missing for two weeks, the girl's murdered body was found under an old mattress in a thicket not far from her home. Known to have been intimate with the dead girl against her parents' wishes, Arnwine was questioned and, after a severe grilling, broke down and confessed that he had killed the girl as part of a suicide pact, but that he lacked the courage to complete the agreement. However, police scoff at the suicide pact theory, it being their contention that Arnwine lured the girl to the midnight love tryst to silence her forever. He had been warned by the victim's father, Charles Rempher, to keep away from Frances, but continued to exercise a strange fascination for her. The father had preferred statutory charges against him and it is believed that it was to prevent Frances testifying that he killed her. Intimates of the murdered girl told of the strange power wielded over her by the rustic Romeo. Daily, they said, she prayed for the townspeople, the spell that made her obey Arnwine's every wish. To the townspeople, Frances was known as a demure, good-living girl, who was popular with all who knew her.

RESTAURANT OWNER FEEDS RATS MONEY

When he dug up the money the following morning he had been robbed again. During the night rats had chewed up all but $4 of the currency.

The Twain Meets

A striking comparison of Eastern and Western modes is offered by this unusual glimpse of a little Japanese boy going to worship at the family shrine of Buddha in the company of his mother. Although the latter is attired in native Japanese costume, her son favors the Occidental mode, even to the cane. Photo was made in Tokio.

Shaw's Play Is Reviewed

A review of Bernard Shaw's "Apple Cart" by Carl Ritz was the program for the Monday club meeting in the club rooms Monday evening.

Miss Grace Moodle read a paper on "the many sided Bernard Shaw, the most criticized, the most maligned author, the best English dramatist, the most remarkable individual whose personalities take precedent over the works of most any other writer."

Shaw has been the greatest teacher in his generation. For forty years he has questioned all our accepted traditions, laughed at all our conventions, sneered at all our habits. He conceived the idea that men in the mass will listen to a great preacher, that they rather enjoy being told brilliantly that they are in a state of sin. He has been named the new Calvin, who has substituted his own dogmas for those of Calvin.

A born autocrat, Shaw is happy only when he commands. In all of his plays he is the chief character and always gets the best of an argument. Asked by what principle he was governed in writing a play he replied, "I am not governed by principles, I am inspired."

The story of "The Apple Cart" is a conflict not between royalty and democracy but between both and plutocracy. Magnus, the King, defeats an attempt by his popularly elected Prime Minister, Proteus, to deprive him of the right to influence public opinion through the press and platform, in short to reduce him to a cipher.

The comic paradox of the situation is that the King wins out by exercising his royal authority but by threatening to resign it and go to the democratic poll.

The play is a political extravaganza in which Shaw projects himself into the future in a conversation between the King's two secretaries.

Two other passages in which the humor of the play is very pronounced, that of the King's cabinet meeting and that of His Excellency the American Ambassador's visit to the King, were read by Mrs. Ritz.

To compare the English with the American, the Pulitzer prize play was read. "Of Thee I Sing" is a lampoon on our National Campaign committee. In the reading, the characters were taken by Mrs. Harry S. Lewis, Mrs. Charles E. Groce, Mrs. R. R. Eales, Mrs. William Uim and Misses Elizabeth Renick and Nell Weldon.

TOY FOR EVERY CHILD

The Frank R. Stiles post of The American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary of North Adams, Mass., will see that every child in the city gets a toy Christmas. The fire department is aiding in the work.

Mrs. V., who lives down Tarlton way, told us recently that the De Luxe spring on her bed was "just fine." She has used it for several years. Why wouldn't a set of these fine bed-springs make a dandy Christmas present for Pa and Ma?

And then Pa and Ma might select one of our fine mohair living room suites for the home and Sister would have some good looking furniture when she entertained her boy friend. One of these nice suites for only $78.50. And then, how about a two piece suite in tapestry for only $56.50?

And for the "gentleman friend," we'd suggest that he select one of those fine smoking cabinets that have but recently arrived. The new 1932 Christmas models are the spiffiest ones we have ever seen and the prices are lower than ever.

WORLD TRAVELER STRANGELY SLAIN

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 6. — Capt. Walter Wanderwell, famed world traveler, was mysteriously shot to death early today on board his luxurious yacht, "The Carmel," tied up at a dock here.

Wanderwell, whose real name was said by United States secret service agents to be Walter Pieszniski, was seated with four guests at a table in the main salon. His wife, Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, was visiting friends in Hollywood. Their two children, asleep in a nearby cabin, were awakened by the shot.

Wanderwell was called from the salon by a well dressed man, the guests said. They heard a shot and found Wanderwell dead in a passageway. The assassin escaped.

ODDS AND ENDS

All you need to be a great writer is ideas, the ability to express them, and a good proof reader.

Ten million more people would mean 2,000,000 more automobiles. How would we get across the street at all?

It isn't a misfortune to be an idiot. Think how many news stories concluded with the words: "The driver escaped unhurt."

No person under the age of sixteen years will be licensed as a chauffeur. Driver of a passenger vehicle must be twenty-one years of age.

The Ohio income from automobile licenses this year will reach nearly $20,000,000 according to Motor Vehicle Bureau estimates.

Some of that radio oratory must have been for sheer love of Mike.

Marrying for money these days is like fishing for whales in a mud-hole.

This season offered every sort of football upset except a Saturday without one.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 3. NO. 49 Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, December 6, 1932

On Thanksgiving Day, a son of Mrs. R., who resides in the northwest portion of the county, came home for a day of hunting on the old home farm. He did not know that his mother had an Estate Heatrola in her home until he came in after a long tramp. We are told that the very first thing he did was to walk up to that Heatrola and place his hand on the floor near the base. He was expecting to find it cold—but he fooled him. We sold his mother a circulating heater that warms the floor.

And speaking of Heatrolas, we are reminded that our total sales of the Estate Heatrola for 1932 have been exceeded already this year by 78.5 per cent. Do you know why this remarkable showing has been made in spite of the condition of business? In our opinion, folks are very careful about their buying, trying to make every dollar count, and so they are not taking any chances but are buying the only genuine Heatrola, the Estate Heatrola—knowing that they give satisfaction.

Wouldn't mother's eyes bulge out on Christmas morning to find that her family has ordered one of those Pyrofax gas ranges for her use? And why shouldn't she be pleased? Hasn't she always envied the city woman that has natural gas to use? And now, with Pyrofax equipment so cheap, every home in the country can enjoy gas cooking and baking. Ask us for the names of the users in this county and then place your order with us. We'll have the outfit installed in time for the Christmas dinner.

Heard in "Squire Friece's court," Attorney Terwilliger: "And where did you see him milking the cow?"

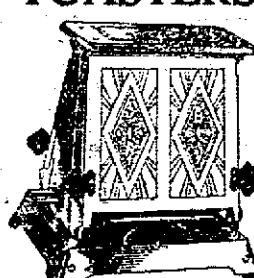

Witness: "Just a trifle beyond the center, sir."

Mrs. V., who lives down Tarlton way, told us recently that the De Luxe spring on her bed was "just fine." She has used it for several years. Why wouldn't a set of these fine bed-springs make a dandy Christmas present for Pa and Ma?

And then Pa and Ma might select one of our fine mohair living room suites for the home and Sister would have some good looking furniture when she entertained her boy friend. One of these nice suites for only $78.50. And then, how about a two piece suite in tapestry for only $56.50?

And for the "gentleman friend," we'd suggest that he select one of those fine smoking cabinets that have but recently arrived. The new 1932 Christmas models are the spiffiest ones we have ever seen and the prices are lower than ever.

Shaw's Play Is Reviewed

A review of Bernard Shaw's "Apple Cart" by Carl Ritz was the program for the Monday club meeting in the club rooms Monday evening.

Miss Grace Moodle read a paper on "the many sided Bernard Shaw, the most criticized, the most maligned author, the best English dramatist, the most remarkable individual whose personalities take precedent over the works of most any other writer."

Shaw has been the greatest teacher in his generation. For forty years he has questioned all our accepted traditions, laughed at all our conventions, sneered at all our habits. He conceived the idea that men in the mass will listen to a great preacher, that they rather enjoy being told brilliantly that they are in a state of sin. He has named the new Calvin, who has substituted his own dogmas for those of Calvin.

A born autocrat, Shaw is happy only when he commands. In all of his plays he is the chief character and always gets the best of an argument. Asked by what principle he was governed in writing a play he replied, "I am not governed by principles, I am inspired."

The story of "The Apple Cart" is a conflict not between royalty and democracy but between both and plutocracy. Magnus, the King defeats an attempt by his popularly elected Prime Minister, Proteus, to deprive him of the right to influence public opinion through the press and platform, in short to reduce him to a cipher.

The comic paradox of the situation is that the King wins not by exercising his royal authority but by threatening to resign it and go to the democratic poll.

The play is a political extravaganza in which Shaw projects himself into the future in a conversation between the King's two secretaries.

Two other passages in which the humor of the play is very pronounced, that of the King's cabinet meeting and that of His Excellency the American Ambassador's visit to the King, were read by Mrs. Ritz.

To compare the English with the American, the Pulitzer prize play was read. "Of Thee I Sing" is a lampoon on our National Campaign committee. In the reading, the characters were taken by Mrs. Harry S. Lewis, Mrs. Charles E. Groce, Mrs. R. R. Bales, Mrs. William Ulm and Misses Elizabeth Renick and Nell Weldon.

And then Pa and Ma might select one of our fine mohair living room suites for the home and Sister would have some good looking furniture when she entertained her boy friend. One of these nice suites for only $79.50. And then, how about a two piece suite in tapestry for only $56.50?
